Cat breeding seems to be slightly less complicated than dog breeding, since you don't need to be as precise about the timing and felines seem to be far more self-sufficient at handling the mating themselves. Cat breeding is noisy, and frankly, a bit rough. Once introduced, a pair will engage in behavior that looks more like warfare than romance.

In any case, a male cat needs more than one female to keep it happy, and its owner will have to decide whether to keep at least five or six females or to advertise the male at public stud. So for the beginner, it is better to buy a female kitten, sending her away to stud when she is sufficiently mature. The majority of female cats live quite happily in the house as pets, whereas with a male it will prove practically impossible to allow it the freedom of the home due to his habit of spraying.
